LWoH mission is to educate, empower and strengthen ties between female teachers across PNG so as to impact changes in teaching and learning, child protection, maternal health and hygiene, student's and teacher's welfare and building peaceful communities.

The National Symposium Week, which will be held in September 19th to the 24th, 2021. It is a national gathering that will bring together over 100 female teachers from across PNG and is dedicated to increasing discussions around the importance of women's health and wellbeing, accessing health and justice for female teachers in remote and rural places. Furthermore, increasing discussions on teaching and learning during COVID 19 emergency. We aim to strengthen and deepen discussions around prevention, response to gender base violence including child protection in our school and communities.

Therefore, your participation in this BREAKFAST TALK will enrich the discussions and add more value and support to enabling a HEALTHIER and STRONGER PNG through education.
